The court was then adjourned for the recess.

Beginning the Rebuttal-The Communist

Procession Again.

The news that the case for the defence was closed had been sufficiently disseminated when the afternoon session began to cause a renewal of crowded attendance. The workers in the trial were dilatory, and it was fifteen minites after 2 o'clock when the lawyers were ready to begin. Mr. Beecher still stayed away. The to begin. Mr. Beecher still stayed away. The first wilness in rebuttal was Mr. Charles C. Stanley, a Brooklyn pocketbook maker. He testified, responsive to Mr. Morris's questioning, that he saw the Rossel procession in New York city on the 7th of December, 1871, and that at several points in the line of march he saw Mr. Tilton marching on foot. He also saw Mrs. Woochuli and Miss Claffin, with a man walking between them carring a banner, but Mr. Tilton was not near them. He was thoroughly cross questioned by Mr. Evarts, but the result was a reiteration of his testimony.

THE SCANDAL NOTE BOOK.

The original of the "Letter to a Complaining Friend," which Mr. Tilton testified was not sent to anybody, but was merely written for publication, is in the possession of Mr. James McDermott, a Brooklyn newspaper reporter. Mr. McDermott says that it was mailed to a person whose identity he refuses to disclose.

On Thursday Mr. Tracy was pressed as to the authorship of the opening address which he had remit be the jury, and his roply was that he write most of it. It was said yesterday, by a man who had been in a position to know and who projessed to tell the truth, that ex-Brother Joe Howard composed a part of the address.

The recuttal is expected to occupy from one to two weeks, but its duration is really mere guesswork, even among Mr. Hiton's lawyers. The witnesses, excepting Mr. Carpenter, will testify upon single points and in the main briefly. Christian Ministers and the Court of Justice.

For such good and sufficient reasons the Christian pastors of Brooklyn have wisely abstained from unwarrentable partisan interferences on either side. An Old Case.

From the Chicago Times.

An ancient Beecher trial may be found An ancient Beecher trial may be found among the proceedings of a Connecticut court held at New Haven May 1, 1600, just two hundred and fifteen years ago. In this case, the kisser was Jacob M. Murline, and the kissee was Miss Sarah Tuttle. It is demonstrated that Jacob "tooke up or tooke away her gloves. Sarah desired him to give her the gloves, to which he arswered he would do so if she would give him a kysse, upon which they sat down together, his arme being about her waiste, and her arme upon his shoulder or about his neck, and he kyssed her and she kyssed him, or they kyssed one another, continuing in his posture about half an hour."

On examination, the amatory Jacob confusedly

MAKING THE STATE'S LAWS.

A REFORM MEASURE'S PROGRESS IN THE ASSEMBLY.

The Amendments to the Inspector Bill Concurred in McGnire's Opinion of Tammany Hall as a Reform Organization.

ALBANY, April 30 .- The Inspector of Public Works bill, as agreed upon by the conference committee, was up for concurrence in amended in several particulars, the most important requiring that all investigations be made in public, and allowing the accused party to be represented by counsel, thus doing away with the objectionable "star-chamber" feature, against which the principal outcry has been section confines the duties of the Inspec-tor to work now being prosecuted, instead of contracts which have given rise to the war upon the canals. This "verbal amendment" seems Mr. George W. Madox, a real estate broker, and once editor of the Communistic publication, the International, was the next witness. His testimony was that he saw Mr. Tilton, Mrs. Woodhull, and Miss Claffin several times in the Rossel procession, and that Mr. Tilton was not with the women. Mr. Madox was humorous under cross-examination, saying that the International Society was suspended, but not so dead as the International newspaper, of which there had been "three whole editions." His manner was centlemaniy and cultivated, yet peculiar in abruptness when bothered by a repetition of questions. He toid Mr. Evarts that he had answered upon one point before, but added, "However, peg away—you may strike something."

Mr. John Swinton, the journalist, was the third witness as to the Rossel procession, in which he participated. He testified that he marched arm in arm with Mr. Tilton throughout the whole route, from the start to the dispersion, and that Mr. Pitton was not with either Mrs. Woodhull or Miss Claffin at any point. In the cross-examination Mr. Evarts asked, "What induced you to join in the procession?"

"For the purpose of martyrdom," was the energetic reply.

The Senate, after a long discussion, ordered to a third reading the bill, a counterpart of which was killed in the Assembly some weeks ago, authorizing the payment of the salary of the "Court of Arbitration" out of the city treasury. The bill was opposed by Senators Fox and Gross of the New York delegation, but was supported by Senators Booth, King, Wood, and Woodin. A petition asking for the passage of the bill was presented, signed by nearly all the merchants of New York of both political parties. It was denied in the discussion that the business by the court was exclusively for the benefit of the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Woodin said that the records showed that out of sixty cases tried before the court there was only one in which any interest. The court was open to mechanics and laboring men as well as merchants, and was of great advantage to that class, as it enabled them to settle claims speedily and at small cost. It was a great relief to the other courts of the city, and also to the Court of Appeals, the members of which had expressed themselves strongly in favor of it. All the expenses of rent, fuel, stationery and lights were borne by the Chamber of Commerce, and it was a very small favor to ask that the salary of the Judge and two clerks should be borne by the chamber of the balage and two clerks should be borne by the chamber.

ask that the salary of the Judge and two clerks should be borne by the city.

THE SALARIES.

The bill as passed fixes the salary of the Judge at $10,000, the clerk at $3,000, and requires that all the fees and costs paid into the court shall go to the city.

Senator Jacobs introduced a bill emeswering the Superintendent of Insurance to require any insurance company to report to him the market value of any stock in which it may have invested any of its funds, and, in case such value shall be below par, to direct a sale of the stock and a change of the investment.

The bill providing for extra compensation of jurors in protracted trials was ordered to a third reading in the Senate to-night. This bill is intended to benefit particularly the jurors in the Beecher trial.

In the Senate this evening the bill to tax stockholders of insurance companies as bank stockholders are taxed was amended and sent to the Finance Committee. On the bill to appoint a commission to report on the lateral canals, the President appointed Messrs. Woodin, Cole, and Johnson as the Senate committee of conference. The Supply bill will be reported on Monday evening.

WASHINGTON, April 30 .- Though Judge eral, the Cabinet crisis is by no means en led. any length of time. Apart from what he has said on the subject, he has rented a summer residence on the Hudson, and has given other public tokens of approaching retreat. Besides, the patronage of the State Department, apwithout a word of consultation with its chief, and often in opposition to his known wishes. In fact, for some time past Mr. Fish has been little more than a registering clerk in respect to appointments. He has never rescoted this interference, but, on the contrary, has submitted to the degradation of his trust with a humility worthy of a Williams, a Robeson, a Belknap, a Deiano, or a Jewell. At last, however, it has become intolerable, and Mr. Fish means to retreat before the deluge comes next year, and find shelter in London. Gen. Schenck accordingly will do well to get his poker chips packed up ready for a start.

When Mr. Fish withdraws, Judge Pierrepont is to be Secretary of State, unless Mr. Conkling, who does not like him, should be able to prevent it. If Pierrepont is thus promoted, Judge Hoar of Massachusetts will be made Attorney-General for the second time. and often in opposition to his known wishes.

Ознкози, Wis., April 30.-There is no possible way of arriving at the loss to the insurance companies by the Oshkosh fire, since all the sgencies but one have been burned out. The books are in confusion, and those of one agency are burned. The insurance with this last-named agency—Gary & Harmon's—is estimated at $500.000. The total loss by the fire is thought to be greater than was first reported, and is now estimated at $2,500,000. It is estimated, in general terms, that the insurance is fifty per cent. of the loss. About three hundred families are burned out, and relief is much needed. The City Council has appropriated $2,000 for their immediate wants. There is no
